heart and soul, A pa-tri-ot-ic some-thing seems to say;

their verdicts. Another smaller room will be used as a smoking room and lounge for the attorneys and court attaches during recess. No smoking will be permitted in the courtroom during sessions.

The rear of the courtroom is furnished with opera chairs, and will seat about 150 people. From the lobby the private offices of Judge Dennis, Mrs. Bertha Wilcox, court clerk, and the constable on duty are entered. All are carpeted in gray velvet and furnished with commodious desks and comfortable arm chairs. A counter has been placed in the clerk's office for the convenience of visitors, which gives the clerk a semi-privacy in that counters transact their business over the counter instead of at her desk.

Hat racks, closets for storing supplies, and all necessary equipment are in place. With the new furniture and fittings, the new Lomita township justice court is neat, roomy, handsomely appointed and conveniently arranged. It compares favorably with the best courtrooms in the district and would do ample credit to a community many times larger in population than Lomita township.

Judge Dennis, Mrs. Wilcox and all court attaches will be in attendance on the night of the opening to greet the visitors and show them around the new dispensary of justice.

Fire Department Called Out Twice

Two alarms were answered by the Torrance fire department on Saturday, February 13, the first being a summons to the Hollywood Riviera riding academy where a coal oil stove in the living quarters had exploded. The fire was put out by employees of the academy before the arrival of the department.

The second call took the firemen to Del Amo No. 18, an oil well belonging to the C.C.M.O., near the intersection of Hawthorne and Camino Real. A cable running to the upper platform in the rig had set up friction which caused a blaze. Hose was run to the top of the rig and the blaze was quickly extinguished.
